

Citizens to Discuss Proposed Health Unit At Doylestown Parley

Move Sponsored by Doctors, Tuberculosis Society, and Republican Women

DOYLESTOWN, Nov. 8. — A citizens' meeting to discuss the formation of a local county health department in Bucks County will be held in the Court Room of the County Court House on Thursday, November 20, at 8 p.m. This meeting is being jointly sponsored by the Medical Society, the Tuberculosis and Health Society, and the Council of Republican Women.

This meeting is being called because of all the interest and concern among many people of the county about forming a county health department. It has been over a year since the legislature passed a law allowing county commissions to create local health departments.

Only One Unit
So far, only one county in Pennsylvania has taken advantage of this law. During the last year, a health department was created in Butler County which is operating today on a limited basis.

Increasing industrialization and the large influx of new people in Bucks County are creating public health problems for which there exists no agency. Another example in New Hope indicates the need of public health aid in the solution of bad water problems.

People are asking how a local county health department can work to solve these problems. The purpose of this citizens' meeting is to answer these questions. Everyone is invited to attend.

Keegan, Sad-Eyed Clown, To Speak at Banquet Here

The men's Bible class of Bristol Presbyterian Church will on the 13th of November sponsor its 33rd annual father and son banquet. The hour is 6:30.

Guest entertainer will be "Chris" Keegan, sad-eyed clown of a popular television circus.

Keegan is a familiar face to countless thousands of television fans, not only in the Phila. area, but to millions throughout the country—for his laughable, lovable portrayal of "Laffy".

Chris has spent his whole life in the theatre and its allied branches. As a boy, he traveled back and forth across the nation with his director-actor father, "Chris"; and his mother, Mary Dean, the well-known actress. His brother "Bob", is also in the theatre.

He got his start in radio in Hollywood. He portrayed the juvenile role in "Uncle Bill Sharple's Breakfast Club." Later, as a free lance actor, he took part in various motion pictures, vaudeville and musical revues—"Gaslight", "Fun for the Money", "Rally Round the Girls", and "Music to My Ears"—to name a few. He was also featured in some 28 other motion pictures. At the same time, he was appearing in numerous clubs and theatres on the west coast.

Pantomime is Chris' specialty, and for 2½ years of the war he put his talent to good use as the lead comic in a U. S. Army Special Service Unit in Europe. He then went into a combat unit as a medical corpsman. After two months of active duty in France, he was hospitalized in England. After his recovery, he returned to the Special Service Unit. Shortly after his return to the states, he joined a television staff. He has been featured as "Laffy".

Chris has always given freely of his time and energy to worthy charities and endeavors, sometimes making four and five personal appearances a week. He is especially favored with the children, who monopolize him and his talents whenever and wherever he makes an appearance.

NEWS OF THE LEVITTOWN COMMUNITY

School Boards Questioned By Civic Association

Education Committee Head Asks for Background; To Read Answers

LEVITTOWN, Nov. 8 — Ulrich A. Frank, chairman of the Levittown Civic Association's educational committee, has addressed questionnaires on the public schools serving this community to the school boards of Tullytown borough and Falls and Bristol twps.

Answers to the inquiries, which concern the boards, pupils, teachers, physical plants, financing and school problems, will be read in their entirety at the next meeting of the Levittown Civic Association, Frank said.

"Our primary objective in asking these questions," Frank told the school board members, "is to obtain the background that will enable our membership to take a better informed part during future meetings both of the Board and our Levittown Civic Association. Any answers you would give would help the newcomers to be better citizens of our community."

Among the questions asked by Frank were inquiries on the structure of the school boards, the number and percentage of Levittown children in the schools and plans for new school buildings, and their financing.

The school boards were also asked "When and how would there be an opportunity for a resident of Levittown to become a member of the Board?" and "What prevents the establishment of full day graded classes?"

Mrs. Titlow said, "Bucks County may well be selected as the Pilot Committee of the State Legislation has been passed that permits each county to take care of all health matters instead of having this taken care of in Harrisburg. Residents of Bucks County, therefore, will be able to see what is being accomplished in the Public Health Field in Doylestown."

A county wide public health meeting to be held in the court house, Doylestown, is scheduled for Nov. 20th at eight p. m. This meeting is being sponsored by the Bucks Co. Republican Women. The combined public health committees of the various Leagues of Women Voters of Bucks Co. are urging all residents of the county to attend, in an effort to bring this important public health question to the attention of as many county residents as possible.

for the sessions which sums up the work of the future as "The Challenge We Face." Speakers will present this keynote as the challenge as a part, as a republic, as a world power, as women, and as a Christian nation.

This week Mrs. Russell W. Dixon, president, of Butler, sounded the convention theme as she called on delegates and guests to attend all sessions of the two-day meeting.

"The challenge we face today is unchanged," Mrs. Dixon warned. "America is still in great danger. Perils still threaten us. As Republicans, we must keep on working for the things we believe in."

"I urge all Republicans, men and women, to strive on, to push on, and to regain these lost policies of American government:

1. Peace for the United States of America
2. Loyalty to the United States of America
3. Integrity in the United States of America
4. Economy by the United States of America.

The convention program is closely packed with Council business and speakers.

The Communist menace will be dramatized by Mrs. Robert Vogeler, whose success in obtaining the release of her husband from a Hungarian jail behind the Iron Curtain, thrilled the world. Mrs. Vogeler will sound a warning to America at the closing banquet in the Penn Harris Hotel on the night of November 18. Her subject is "A Time to Speak."

She will be preceded by Governor John S. Fine who will make the leading address on state GOP affairs. Toastmistress is Mrs. John Y. Huber, Jr., of Montgomery County.

Levittown Boy

Goldfarb, deputy coroner, said the boy was already dead from suffocation when his body was extricated.

Others Nearby

Two other boys who had been previously using the tunnel and who were nearby at the time of the accident are Dale De Grange, 11, and Ralph De Grange, 10, brothers who live at 12 Shelter Lane, a short distance from the scene of the tragedy which happened by the intersection of Stonybrook Dr. and Shelter Lane.

They fled as the earth caved in. Richard Harshaw, of 15 Graceville avenue, said he was a member of the group which had been using the cave as a play shelter, but was not at the scene when the accident happened.

Workmen said a number of boys had been warned several times to keep away when they were seen digging and playing at the foot of the embankment.

Used By Several Boys

Apparently some five or six boys had been using the tunnel as a play shelter.

David Tichaz, home in bed after the accident, told a Courier reporter that a second tunnel had been dug a short distance from the first and that the two boys were trying to make the two meet at the time of the accident.

He said he was at the entrance to one of the tunnels while Michael Berkowitz was inside underground poking a rod into the ground in an effort to make the two caves meet.

Some other boys were moving around at the top of the embankment.

Then It Happened

Suddenly, young Tichaz shouted "Look out! It's cracking!" as the earth caved in and he tried unsuccessfully to flee across the ditch, but was caught in the falling earth which half buried him.

David said he could hear his companion's muffled cries of "Help, help!" coming from under the ground.

Police Sergeant Benj. Porto, in charge of the investigation, Nick Eberle, captain of the guards, and Officers Stephen Porto and Thomas Stewart, were unable immediately to learn who the other boys were, since they all fled.

Crowds of spectators lined the side of the embankment as crane operators and men with shovels continued digging for hours to see if any other boys had been caught in the cave-in while young Michael's body lay on the cold ground wrapped in a khaki blanket.

Men Help Out

Contractor William A. Jarvis ordered his men to aid in the digging operations.

Young David shouted that there was another boy buried as he fled frightened after being dug out of the mud.

Michael's body was taken to the John C. Black Funeral Home in Bristol.

Surviving him are two brothers, Leonard, 6½, and Gerald, 4½.

Another youngster playing by the ditch earlier in the day was Jeffery Dorn, 10, of 30 Shelter Lane, but he said he was not there at the time of the accident.

Chased Away Earlier

Project Superintendent Charles Hart said he had chased the boys away from the ditch on numerous occasions, warning them that it was dangerous.

The Levittown youngsters attend school from 7:30 a.m. until noon each day and have the afternoons free. It was after lunch that they started their tunnel episode.

One shovel for digging the tunnel had been found in the woods, said the DeGrange brothers, and another had been brought from one of the boys' homes.

Several of the boys had been using the tunnels as a place to play in during their afternoons.

whiskey. George A. Heinonen, 20, of 233 Cleveland street, Bristol, was fined $250 and cost after he pleaded guilty to drunken driving; and Morris Bleam, 70, of Richlandtown how also pleaded guilty to drunken driving was sentenced to pay $200 fine, costs, and $300 damage to a Mrs. Dorsey into whose car he ran Oct. 26, south of Quakertown.

Carried Into Field

Cpl. Charles A. Jones of the Langhorne substation of the Penna. State Police, testified that Francis Mulholland, who is now in California, was "rolled" and robbed of his wallet which contained $26.

Dinnell, who was in the White Hill Industrial School at Camp Hill during 1947, because he appeared in Juvenile Court, here, admitted he carried Mulholland on his back out into a field.

Judge Biester severely upbraided Mariano for his conduct in court. While seated at the defense table, both Mariano and Dinnell seemed to regard their appearance as a joke, and Judge Biester warned them "You don't seem to realize you are in a serious jam and that there is nothing humorous about your case."

Stole Whiskey From House

Thomas Vaughn, 18, Newportville, who pleaded guilty to stealing whiskey from the Summer home of Arthur Kramer, and was arrested Sept. 3 by a Bristol Township Policeman, Ernest Nuskey, was sentenced to serve not less than two nor more than 23 months in the County Prison. Vaughn, the father of a child, was in company with several minors whose cases have been disposed of in Juvenile Court.

Although two cases of whiskey were stolen, Vaughn said he only took one case. They drank the whiskey, he told the Court, and gave it to others at drinking parties.

Two Drunken Drivers

President Judge Keller sentenced George A. Heinonen, 20, 233 Cleveland st., Bristol, who pleaded guilty to drunken driving Oct. 17 in Bristol, to pay a $250 fine and the costs of prosecution. The defendant, who has resided in Bucks county seven months and will be 21 years old in January, was reprimanded for drinking at a public bar while still a minor. The car he was driving was owned by Miss Maroney, of Bristol, because the defendant is a minor. A Bristol policeman, Vincent Farragalli, arrested him. There were three other men all of whom were intoxicated but Heinonen was driving the car.

Further discussion was held on a report on garbage and refuse collection and it was agreed the commission should discuss this problem with the Pennsylvania Economy League.

Discussion was held concerning the problem of sale of sub-divisions of land at public auction. Auctioneers in the county and neighboring counties have been notified to have sub-division plans approved by the Planning Commission.

The following final sub-division plans were approved as presented or with minor revisions: Elmer Phillips, lower Southampton twp.; Ivy Uplands, Ivyland; Jorgen Fechtenburg, Bensalem twp.

roadway. They tried to get back into the right side lane, they explained, and, in doing so, hit a soft shoulder of the road which threw their car out of control.

The car careened from the soft shoulder and turned over demolishing the canvas top of the convertible police said, and injuring the occupants of the car.

Officers Shaw, Hibbs, Bauers, and G. Parto of Bristol township police investigated the crash.

In Bensalem township, at the intersection of Street road and the old Lincoln Highway, a two-car crash resulted in injury to two young girls and an 18-year-old boy, early this morning.

Cars Collide

The crash occurred, according to Officer William Schramm, of Bensalem township police when the car driven by Calvin Bell, age 17, of 6th avenue, Hatboro, plowed into the side of the car driven by Mrs. Elinor Hauck, 37, of Oakford. Three passengers in Bell's car, Marion Miller, 17, Avenue A, and June Couch, 16, Easton road, both of Horscham, and Martin Wurst, 18, Madison avenue and Beech street, Warminster, now serving with the U. S. Navy, were rushed to Nazareth Hospital by the Trevose Heights Rescue Squad. The two girls suffered slight facial injuries. Wurst received injuries to his side. Mrs. Hauck was also treated at the hospital for lacerations of the face and forehead.

The accident occurred, according to Schramm, when Bell's car, traveling west on Street road failed to stop at the stop sign at the intersection of that road and the old Lincoln Highway. Schramm said he was told by Mrs. Hauck that she tried to stop when she saw the car approaching the intersection, even though she had the right of way, but was unable to do so even though she had applied her brakes before reaching the crossing.

Much Damage Done

Schramm estimated $850 damage to the front and left side of Bell's car, $500 damage to the front and right side of Mrs. Hauck's automobile.

In a collision at Route 1 near Trevose, Officer Schramm reported that cars belonging to Russell G. Arbuckle, 18, of Hawthorne street, Phila., and Walter Durant, 49, of Chestnut street, New Britain, Conn., suffered total estimated damage of $75. No one was reported injured, though, Schramm said, James Boyd, an occupant of Durant's car, and of the same address as Durant, claimed he had been injured but refused to submit to medical examination.

PATIENT TREATED

Bristol Blood Donors report that they transported Sandra Marrucci, Washington street, to a physician's office for treatment, from there to Abington Hospital for treatment, and then returned the patient home.
